PLEASE READ THE LIST OF DEFINITIONS BEFORE ANSWERING THE QUESTIONS

DISABILITY

The Disability Discrimination Act 1995 defines a disabled person as someone with a physical or mental impairment which has a substantial and long-term effect on his ability to carry out normal day-to-day activities.

The following is a list of some medical definitions or impairments that might cause someone to describe themselves as 'having a disability'. It is not meant to be an exclusive list and is given for guidance only. (Information provided courtesy of the Employers Forum on Disability.)

Visual:	Examples: registered blind or partially sighted (If you wear corrective lenses, this is not normally considered a disability)
Co-ordination:	Examples: polio, spinal cord injury, severe back problems, difficulty with fine motor skills
Dexterity, mobility:	Amputation, need for a cane, crutches, braces, wheelchair, prosthesis or other assistive medical devices
Mental Health:	Examples: schizophrenia, depression, severe phobias, severe stress
Speech:	Examples: difficulty in speaking, speech impairment, difficulty being understood, communicates without speech
Learning difficulties:	Examples: Down's syndrome, dyslexia, reading, or writing difficulty
Hearing:	Examples: Deaf, hard of hearing
Other physical or medical conditions:	Examples: Diabetes, epilepsy, arthritis, cardiovascular conditions, haemophilian, asthma, cancer, facial disfigurement

ETHNIC ORIGIN

Ethnic origin questions are not about nationality, place of birth or citizenship. They are about colour and broad ethnic group. UK citizens may belong to any of the groups listed below.

The categories provided are those used during the 1991 Census and are compatible with those recommended by the Commission for Racial Equality (CRE).

The classification is largely based on self-definition. The italics show those individuals who, during the Census of 1991, classified themselves as 'other' and were then re-allocated by the Office of Population Censuses and Statistics into one of the ten broad groups.
